We're here, Lafayette, We're Here

On July 4th, 1917, General Pershing, in command of the first American expeditionary force in France, went to the tomb of Lafayette, and, mindful of Lafayette's help to the United States in the darkest days of the Revolutionary war, placed a wreath of flowers on the tomb, saluted and said, "Lafayette, we are here!"

We're here, La-fay-ette, we're here,— We will not for-get, nev-er fear. Comes the We're here, La-fay-ette, we're here,— Your spir-it brought cour-age and cheer; When our call to free-men and we hear the cry, For Free-dom's cause must nev-er die.— We're coun-try called we found you brave and true, Our gal-lant men we now send you.— We're here, La-fay-ette, we're here— Your name we will al-ways re-vere. We will here, La-fay-ette, we're here— A-mer-i-ca's mis-sion is clear. We will fight with you un - til vic - to - ry, We're here, La - fay - ette, we're here.

CHORUS

We're here, in sun - ny France land, Were here to lend a hand. In the fight for right we join you With the grand old Red, White and Blue.

We're here, in sun - ny France land, We're here to lend a hand, And the dawn will soon ap - pear, La - fay - ette, we're here, we're here.
